Executive Summary

1) Hard and Soft Skills facilitate Career Success.

The capacity to learn is a gift, the ability to learn is a skill and the willing to learn is a choice.

Skills and Grades Two B's or an A and a C
Which is better?

See Technical Skill to Enhance the Liberal Arts.

2) What you study and your activities determine skill levels associated with success.

3) College Isn't A Guarantee To The Middle Class.

4) Do what you like because our "Flat" very competitive world requires more effort for success.

5) Most new jobs are in health care, education, STEM areas and retail sales/service. edited by Walter Antoniotti

6) Studies show most careers are enhanced by digital knowledge. Start today by enhancing your Geekability. How? Learn and use one software or Apps task per month.

7) Substantial efforts toward Improving SAT testing ability may not be successful

a) Comprehensive test coaching helps little.

b) Associated anxiety they cause may be a serious problem.

8) Choose a College and Major for which you are academically well prepared.

a) Grants and grades will be higher

b) Increased time can be used to enhance non-academic soft skills

c) Professors spend more time with their better students
